are you ready?

Before we begin, let me tell you a little bit about myself. My name is Wise Spirit and I was the young girl born with intuitive abilities that presented themselves early in my life. My imaginary friends were actually Spirit Guides who have always been there for me, and still, assist me in making many life choices. And while I believe that everyone is born with some measure of intuitiveness, unfortunately, not everyone knows how to develop this gift. This course serves as a tool to assist you in your spiritual journey. A journey that can be intimidating when you don't have the resources to navigate your experiences. Which is why I created this course. A guide that will enable you to find the confidence to finally trust yourself and your intuition. You have the answers to the riddles within you. Allow me to show you.

Signs that you are already highly Intuitive aka an Empath

- You are able to pick up on others' emotions easily
- You may often be told that you are too sensitive
- People frequently come to you for advice
- You crave time alone to recharge
- You have a nurturing disposition that draws people to you
- You have a green thumb and/or are able to communicate with animals
- You are able to pick up on when people are experiencing physical pain
- You feel called to heal or protect others
- You have a sensitivity to certain sights, sounds, or smells what does this all mean?

You may have spent your entire life trying to figure out why you have felt 'different'. You may question if these things that you're able to easily pick up on are coincidence, Deja Vue, or merely your mind playing tricks on you. As your abilities grow, you may view them as a blessing or a curse, if there is no one to guide you in developing them. It can be a daunting task when you begin to accept this gift. The ability to pick up the energy of others can be exhausting. This course will help you to work with these emotions and how to set boundaries for yourself. So that you are not feeling drained as you continue to develop your intuition. When you learn how to balance what you receive and what you release, the calling of being intuned with others becomes so much easier. And you will begin to enjoy & even benefit from the process.

You are a unique being, and just like your fingerprint, you have a special imprint in this World that no one else has. Don't compare your journey to anyone else's. Trust the process as you master your intuitive abilities & learn how to go deep within yourself to find the truth.
